Transforming
African Youth
Through
Whole Life Coaching

Ubabalo eAfrica 2010 is a project initiated by SASCOL and ISC

More about the South African Sports Coalition (SASCOL)

SASCOL is an initiative by predominant church leaders representing a large constituency of churches in South Africa.

World Cup Soccer 2010 offers Africa the best opportunity to combat the destructive giants of HIV and AIDS, breaking up of family units, poverty, corruption, violence and ethnic strife. These giants need to be overcome by lasting moral values that direct the behaviours of our people.

Through this initiative and partnership with the ISC, the church is capturing the golden opportunity to transform the future generations of Africa.

More about the International Sports Coalition (ISC)

In 1985 the International Sports Coalition (ISC) was formed as a partnering body to help the different spheres of sports interests to interact with each other.

The main purposes of the ISC are to model, train, network and create partnerships.

In 2003 the ISC partners had formed ten different strategies that had emerged from this partnering body.

Currently the ISC serves more than 200 nations in 46 regions through various sporting opportunities.

Now a new opportunity for Africa has arisen.
